

Training Committee Report – 09.25.2021

Have you ever been “thrown” into a position (not “volunteered” necessarily, more like “tele-unteered”!) and your predecessor has moved to Florida or is otherwise not available? And have you ever taken a position where not only was the predecessor gone, but there was no real documentation on the expectations of that position?

I’m sure many of us (me, included) have been in those positions at least once in our lifetime! There’s lots of guidance, including some great plans, building blocks, etc. in our NCCW website, for successful mentoring. But what can make all those plans and building blocks so much easier is up-to-date documentation on that position!

So – if you’re currently in a position - and hoping to find your replacement in the future – take a look at the documentation for your position. If you were thrown into one of the situations above, would you be able to make sense of it and move forward?

You – and the mentor for your replacement – will be eternally grateful!
